The Wayback Machine - https://web.archive.org/web/20141224085155/http://www.indigocafe.com:80/columns/article.php?c=49

| Home  | The Bookstore  | Your Bookshelf   | The Café Columns & R  | eviews Author ~              | Sea   |
|---|--|--|---|------------------------------|---|
|   |  WE   | ARE CLOSED. TH   | IANK YOU FOR YOUR PATRO   | NAGE. ***                    |   |
| Become an Affiliate   | Suggest A Book   | Gift Certificates  | Jenn's Blog: A Bookseller's Tale  | Frequent Buyer Card          | About us Help   |
| establishing the moand Sugar Street –overbearing fathernovel Adrift on the | Naguib Mahfouz haperfectly in keepingrst Arab to win the Noodern Arabic novel. Hi– is considered his maat its center made it hNile, are often more p | , Staff Reviewerinished reading Thed died at the age of 9with a book concernbel Prize for literaturs Cairo Trilogy — Paasterpiece, though toeavy going. Mahfouzlayful and accessible | Seventh Heaven, I heard that4 — a spooky coincidenceed with the afterlife and thee, and he is credited withblace Walk, Palace of Desire,me its grim realism and thet's shorter works, like the shorta, and when he lets himself strayDays, he may be at his best. | 99 Bothe—A lbest | BASKETBASKETBELEAVESCooff WinnerCooff WinnerCooff WinnerSpirit of Africaliterary tour of thebooks from everycountry in Africabook by Geoff Wisner |

The Seventh Heaven is a collection of stories published between 1973 and 1999, and arranged — like the Koran — from the longest pieces to the shortest. In the title story, a man learns how to handle the afterlife when his friend murders him over a woman. In "The Disturbing Occurrences," a police detective looks for the perpetrator of a series of mysterious crimes. (His chief suspect, as the translator explains, "possesses the one trait that in Mahfouz's fictional universe always indicates either a grave moral defect or raving depravity — blond hair.") In "Room No. 12," a woman with a strangely powerful manner checks into a hotel, then begins packing dozens of seemingly random visitors into her room — all except for Blind Sayyid the Corpse Washer, a sinister figure whom she keeps waiting downstairs.

The shortest of these stories are only two or three pages long, and many of their plots are left unresolved. Still, the sureness of Mahfouz's storytelling voice gives an eerie force to these tales of ghosts and demons.

About the Reviewer

Geoff Wisner is a freelance writer and staff member of Indigocafe.com. He is the author of A Basket of Leaves: 99 Books That Capture the Spirit of Africa. Visit his website at www.geoffwisner.com.

| posted by: Geoff   more from this member | Print Article        |
|--|----------------------|
| 0 Comments                               | [ Add Your Comment ] |

"Be the change you want to see in the world." —Mahatma Gandhi

 Home
 The Bookstore
 The Café
 Columns & Reviews

 Advanced Search
 Specials
 Gift Certificates
 Become an Affiliate

 Your Account
 Your Shopping Bag
 Your Bookshelf

Copyright © 2005 - 2008 Indigo Café & Books, Inc. All rights reserved. Comments? Questions? | Policies & Terms of Use | Help | Advertise with us

StatCounter - Free Web Tracker and Counter

